A Beauty and the Beast AU where Belle realizing she loves Beast isn't at some dramatic climactic event but during some random everyday moment. Like, she's filing her nails and just kinda glances up at him and he's like doing something just as dull and it just kinda dawns on her that she loves him but she doesn't voice it cause she isn't exactly ready to confront those emotions and what they mean so she goes back to filing her nails but then it starts raining glitter and Beast is defying gravity in a glowing ball of light and the castle is changing back and everyone becomes human again. Then everyone is left in silent moment of shock and confusion and Belle, being completely unaware of what it takes to break the curse, is just staring around in horror while everyone freshly humanized comes running into whatever room she and Beast were in (probably the library) expecting to see something other than human Beast in a heap on the ground and Belle across the room in a chair frozen in shock and confusion and everyone just kinda looks at each other for a couple of seconds not really sure what to say cause nobody is entirely sure what happened other than the curse was broken. Then Beast finally gets up and looks around and realizes what this means and looks at Belle and is just like "you love me?" And Belle is just like "wat?"

ALTERNATELY: Belle falls in love slowly. As a result, Beast turns back into a human slowly. She overhears him singing in the shower (it's amazing how old pipes echo) and realizes it's that song she was trying to teach herself on the piano (okay, that the piano was teaching her). It's sweet and mundane, and lovely. Meanwhile, in the bathroom, Beast is humming nervously as he looks at the fur clogging the drain. He thought at least he'd be free of male pattern balding since he's cursed! Later, Belle gets a cold, and Beast brings her soup and sandwiches, and she curses at him because how dare he have such a hearty immune system, and he chuckles and leaves it. After he's gone, she notices he cut the grilled cheese on the diagonal, crusts off, exactly right. Beast, downstairs, trips and falls, because the sudden lack of toe-claws threw off his balance.

And so on and so forth, so slowly she doesn't really see it, she just assumes her memories were colored by her fear. Until one day, as he goes out to tend his roses, she yells "Bye, love you!" and when he comes back in, all excited, she nearly beans him with an encyclopedia, because "WHAT THE FUCK, WHO ARE YOU?" and Beast is just "You seriously didn't notice me turning back into a human? You are so smart... and SO DUMB, I BEEN NEARLY DYING EVERY TIME, WHY DO I LOVE YOU, YOU BEAUTIFUL DISASTER WOMAN!"

And Belle goes "...what?"
